

Mt. Everest-Lhotse Combined Expedition - 60 Days

The Everest and Lhotse expedition presents a remarkable opportunity to achieve the dual summit of two of the world's highest mountains in a single journey. This expedition is tailored for mountaineers seeking to conquer both Mt. Everest (8,848.86 meters) and Mt. Lhotse (8,516 meters) along the same route from Khumbu Icefall to South Col (7,890 meters).

It is a cost-effective and acclimatized approach to reaching both peaks, making it an attractive option for mountaineering enthusiasts. The expedition offers breathtaking views of the Himalayan peaks, including Cho Oyu, Makalu, and others, as well as the chance to explore the unique high-altitude environment, vibrant settlements, and diverse flora and fauna along the route. It is a popular choice for those looking to add another 8,000-meter mountain to their list and for adrenaline enthusiasts seeking the thrill of conquering two significant peaks in a single journey.

We, Outward Adventure Treks and Expedition provide expert guidance and logistical support to ensure a safe and successful experience for mountaineers. The Everest and Lhotse expedition not only provides an exhilarating mountaineering experience but also offers a cost-effective and acclimatized approach to achieving the dual summit of two of the world's highest mountains. It is a journey that promises to be both memorable and rewarding for those with a passion for mountaineering.

A BRIEF INTRODUCTION TO THE MOUNTAINS

Mount Everest (8848.86m)

Mount Everest, the world's highest peak, is located in the Mahalangur Himalayan range on the border between Nepal and Tibet. It has an elevation of 8,848.86 m/29,029 ft above sea level and was first climbed on May 29, 1953, by Tenzing Norgay Sherpa from Nepal and Sir Edmund Hillary from New Zealand via the South Face. Since then, many climbers have followed their steps and summited Mount Everest, achieving numerous world records in the history of mountaineering.

Mt. Lhotse (8516m)

Lhotse, the world's 4th highest mountain, is located south of Mount Everest and connected with the South Col. The main summit of Lhotse is at 8,516 meters (27,940 feet) above sea level, and it lies on the border between Tibet (China) and the Khumbu region of Nepal. Apart from the main summit, there are two other smaller peaks: Lhotse Middle (East) at 8,414 meters and Lhotse Shar at 8,383 meters.
